Pathways to Results starts fifth year in OCCRL's new Chicago office

Pathways to Results (PTR) recently held its first cross-site meeting of the 2013-14 academic year at the Office of Community College Research and Leadership's (OCCRL) offices at the Illini Center in Chicago. In addition to the Chicago office, OCCRL will continue to maintain its original University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign location at 51 Gerty Drive in Champaign.

“We are very pleased to be located in such an accessible, prominent place in Chicago,” said Debra Bragg, OCCRL director and professor in the Department of Education Policy, Organization and Leadership. “Our location is enabling us to strengthen partnerships in the city. We are excited about extending PTR to City Colleges of Chicago and other community colleges in the greater metropolitan area and northern Illinois,” Bragg added.

PTR is an equity-focused continuous improvement process aimed at improving programs of study to support student transitions to college and careers. The process empowers community colleges and their partner organizations to continuously improve programs and produce more equitable student outcomes.
